Defiant Scheme To Get Jews Into Palestine Blocked; Jabotinsky Arrested And Released

A story of frankly extra-legal efforts to set up a steamship service to shuttle 1,000 Jewish refugees a week from the Balkans into Palestine was disclosed in New York, along with a charge that the central character, Eri Jabotinsky, member of the nine-month-old Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, had been deported from Turkey at British instigation and then arrested on his return to Palestine.

The fact that the British government had known of the defiant shuttle scheme was confirmed at the embassy in Washington, while Representative Edward L. Sullivan, Democrat, of Nebraska, was telling the House that Mr. Jabotinsky went to Turkey with "full approval of the President's War Refugee Board" in an Army bomber arranged for by the State Department.

Mr. Sullivan put into the Congressional Record a letter to the [illegible] of Halifax, British Ambassador, by Ben Hecht, co-chairman of the American League for a Free Palestine, charging that "my friend Eri has been whisked off to a British concentration camp to be held incommunicado on some unlawful grand pilfe."

Peter W. Bennett, second secretary, said the British embassy had asked the Foreign Office several days ago for information on the [illegible] of a Feb. 24 Ankara dispatch by The Associated Press that Mr. Jabotinsky's deportation, at added instigation, into [illegible] was still being [illegible] of [illegible]

Mr. Sullivan's emergency group arranged in co-operation with John W. Pehle, then executive director of the War Refugee Board, to send Mr. Jabotinsky to Ankara to help rescue Jews from occupied Europe or newly-liberated ravaged areas. Mr. Martin said Mr. Jabotinsky had "semi-official status", and showed documents indicating his communications had arrived in diplomatic code through then Ambassador Lawrence A. Steinhardt, or in diplomatic pouches.

Mr. Jabotinsky worked first in an advisory capacity with W. R. B., Mr. Martin went on, in rescuing some 80,000 Jews from Eastern Europe, most of whom were transferred to Palestine.

W. R. B. itself, Mr. Martin emphasized, had remained closely within the legal framework of the White Paper, which banned Jewish immigration into Palestine after last March 31 but permitted entry on some 46,000 immigration certificates not previously utilized.

Apart from this, however, Mr. Jabotinsky also sought to arrange an illicit shuttle service to accommodate far larger numbers from among 100,000 Jews in Rumania and 50,000 in Bulgaria, Mr. Martin said. "It was the intention of Jabotinsky to break the quota," Mr. Martin declared.

Every government but the British had been sympathetic, Mr. Martin asserted. He cited cables from Mr. Jabotinsky quoting the Rumanian Foreign Minister Nov. 15 as "expressing sympathy to Hebrew State, promising freedom immigration Jews during leave." [illegible] also had the co-operation of Rumanian authorities in Rumania. Last Dec. 7, Mr. Jabotinsky cabled the word "expecting authorization Turkish government use Turkish ship Tari" for a Constanta-Haifa refugee service. He reported the charter and collection and equipment of refugees would require $200,000 for the first trip. The emergency committee's co-chairman, Peter Bergson, who is also chairman of the Hebrew Committee, and Representative Somers cabled authorization. The next word was a radiogram from Mr. Jabotinsky Jan. 2, which said:

"Turkish government was willing authorize one ship for refugees, but British grant note can-

May Arbitrate Break Between J.D.C. And U.P.A.

The Joint Distribution Committee, at a special meeting of its Executive Committee, agreed to submit to arbitration the unresolved differences between the J. D. C. and United Palestine Appeal for 1945. This action followed receipt of a telegram from Sidney Hollander, president of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, requesting the two major organizations in the U. J. A. to submit their differences to arbitration.

In his telegram to Mr. Hollander, notifying him of the J.D.C.'s action, Paul Baerwald, Chairman of the J.D.C., stated:

"In response to your telegram of February 23 urging that the J.D.C. and U.P.A. agree to submit differences to arbitration by mutually acceptable procedure, we refer to our letter of February 26th to you setting forth the unresolved differences which existed prior to the Cincinnati meeting on February 10th. Inasmuch as no agreement was reached as a result of the Cincinnati meeting, the differences remaining between the parties still continue to be the following:

"The U.P.A. proposed a first division of ten million dollars in the ratio of sixty to forty percent or a first division of twenty-five million dollars in the ratio of fifty-eight to forty-two percent, with the Jewish National Fund tradi-

DRASTIC ANTI-BIAS BILL, WITH "TEETH" IN IT, PASSED BY N.Y. STATE ASSEMBLY IN TENSE HISTORIC SESSION

In a historic session marking the first step of an action unprecedented in the U.S., the New York State Assembly passed on February 28, at Albany, N.Y., by 109 to 32, the Ives-Quinn bill creating a permanent five-man state commission to fight racial and religious discrimination in employment.

The end of the final rollcall, which found thirty upstate Republicans and two New York City Republicans in the negative, came at 6 p.m., after exactly six hours of debate—the longest debate in the New York Legislature on any one bill in at least ten years.

Although the controversial bill, which gives New York State the first commission of its kind in the nation was not a party measure for either side, the fifty-three Democratic Assemblymen present supported it in a solid bloc.

Added to that total were fifty-five Republican votes, including those of all the Republican leaders, and the vote of the Assembly's lone American Laborite — Leo Isaacson, of Manhattan.

Throughout the long afternoon of debate, which did not become bitter or heated until near the close, the argument in favor of the bill was led by Irving M. Ives, Republican majority leader of the Assembly, introducer of the measure and the chairman of the temporary commission that drafted it after studying discrimination for seven months last year.

And when it came time to take the final rollcall, after three attempts to amend the bill had failed, Mr. Ives received the [illegible] casting his vote from Mr. Ives's seat. The Speaker may vote any time, but rarely does, and perhaps only once in a generation does he leave the rostrum to deliver remarks from the floor.

The two Republican Assemblymen from New York City who opposed the bill were John R. Brook and Archibald Douglas jr., both of Manhattan.

The leader of the Republican opposition was William M. Stuart, the big Assemblyman from Steuben County, and it was he who injected the heat into the argument toward the end when, as a last gesture of battle, he proposed an amendment making the bill inoperative unless approved by a majority in a state-wide referendum, according to the New York Herald Tribune.

Mr. Stuart opened the debate with the assertion that the drive for passage of the bill came largely from Negro and Jewish groups and a few others forming a very small but highly organized minority in the State.

The bill, which was approved in the Senate on Monday night and probably will be signed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey this week, empowers the five-man state commission to fight discrimination in unemployment for reasons of race, color, creed or ancestry, by educational programs and conciliations and persuasion.

But it also empowers the commission to take cases of non-conformance to court where convicted offenders can be punished by maximum penalties of a year in [illegible]

The day's event and the final passage of the bill by such a good majority was a signal triumph for Mr. Ives, who worked hard on the discrimination study and the preparation of the bill. His contribution in these efforts was acclaimed today by Democrats and Republicans alike, and also by Mr. Isaacson, the lone American Laborite.

Although the debate was at times dramatic, Mr. Ives was sure of his vote, and the final decision was scarcely in doubt when the argument opened at noon with Mr. Stuart blasting the bill.

Asserting that prejudice and discrimination must be conquered through education, not coercion, Mr. Stuart asserted: "Men will not be clubbed into loving their fellowmen. In the old, when we do away with discrimination, it will be voluntary. But this bill says: 'You love me, damn you, or I'll seek you.'"

He charged that the bill would foster race hatred, enable labor spies to gain union memberships, cause race riots, bring back such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan, rob employers of the right to pick their own workers on the basis of ability, and impose censorship on critics of the p[illegible] anti-discrimination law.

[illegible] of the assembly's [illegible] was Assemblyman [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

A white satin chaplet, edged with pearls, held her tulle illusion veil which was appliqued with lace medallions. She had a pearl and amethyst pendant, the gift of the groom, and carried an ivory Bible, with white orchids, and streamers of bouvardia. Miss Esther Hart, an aunt of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing an aquamarine-colored princess gown, with a ... feather headdress and matching sleeves, and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids were: Misses Marilyn Sacks and Sharon Coldoff, in pink; and Barbara Sacks, in mauve, cousins of the groom; and Mara Stone and Faigie Kozon, in wine, and Faigele Hart, in mauve, cousins of the bride. Their gowns were both alike, and made of taffeta, with long flounced skirts; and they had pink bouquets and carried Colonial nosegays. Harry Eichler, cousin of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were: Seymour Berger, cousin of the groom; Jerry Sacks, brother of the groom; and Edward Stein, cousin of the bride. The synagogue was decorated with standards of white candles, white gladioli, and palm leaves. Prof. J. Rosenaria played the organ, and Mrs. I. A. ... sang "Because". Mrs. ... wore a Chartreuse-colored gown, made with a jewelled yoke and hat, and draped skirt, purple and Chartreuse-colored hat and gloves, and a corsage of mauve orchids. Mrs. Sacks wore an American Beauty colored dress, with ... yoke and sleeves, ... hat, and a corsage of ... orchids. At the reception ... the bride's ...

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD

GIVE!

● Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbours, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours. You will send help — yes, His Share! — to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and — GIVE!

LEGIBLE LIKE THIS

With clearly as you do block letters, giving complete details. Write your own name and address on upper left hand corner.

Don't take a chance on your Parcel. You may cause a number of the end of many needed days.

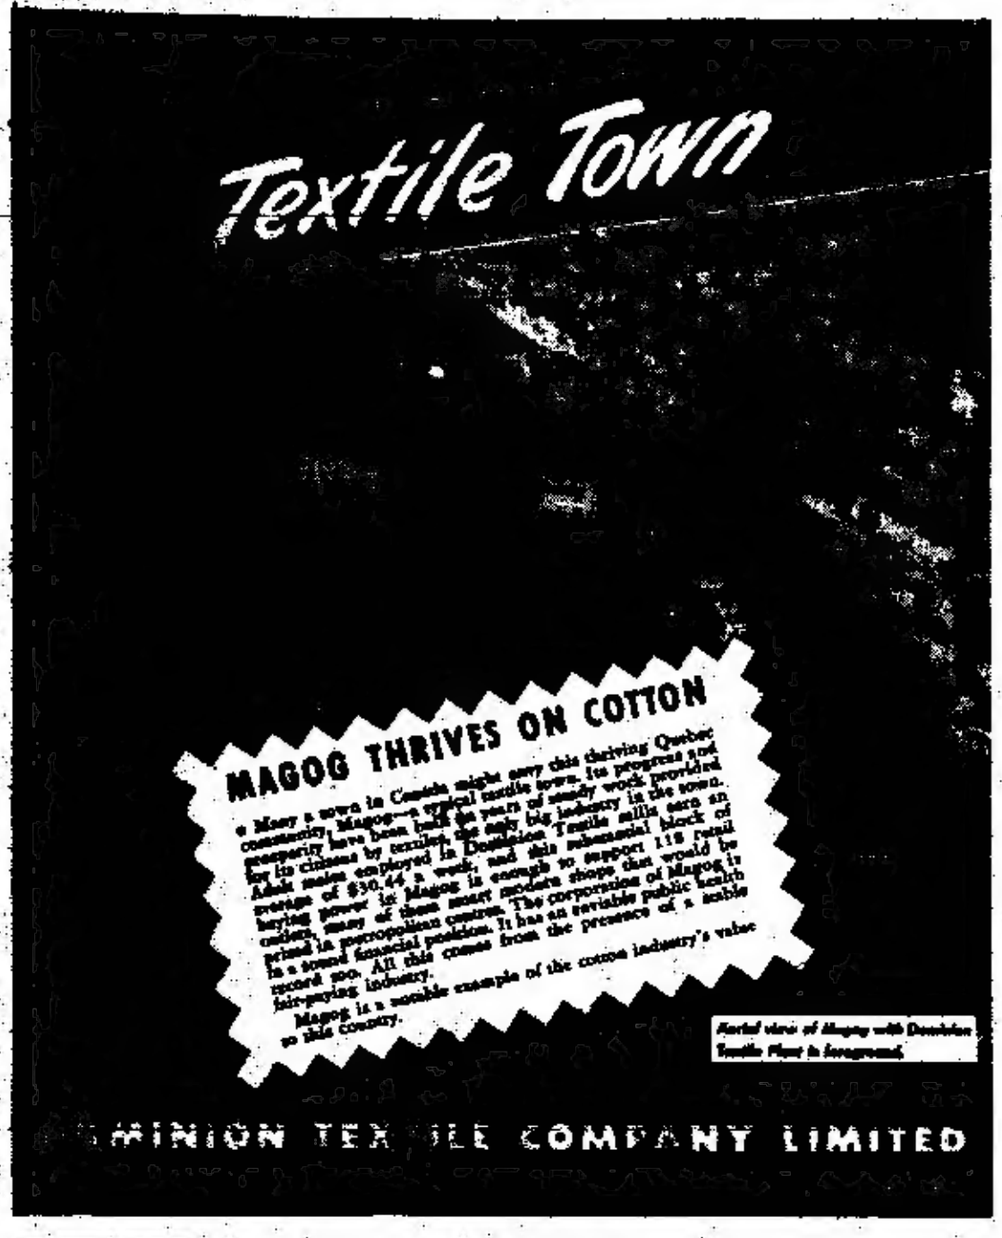
THIS is a year of rapid movement. Overseas mail must be handled many times before it reaches your men. If you write a wrong or incomplete address, it may cause weeks of delay in spite of all your Post Office or Canadian Postal Corps can do to speed delivery. You can save much heart-ache by following these simple rules:

1. Write clearly — print the full address in block letters.
2. Make sure the address is CORRECT, many delays are caused by wrong unit designations and number of unit.
3. If you are writing to a wounded man in hospital Overseas, write the word CONFIRM address, then ADD the words "IN HOSPITAL" in large letters on the envelope.

YOUR PARCEL MUST FACE THE HORRORS OF WAR

Your parcel must stand the weight of thousands more pounding down on it in the hold of a heaving ship at sea. It must stand rough transport, often under fire, over shelled roads. Pack your parcels in corrugated containers, wrap in several layers of heavy paper and tie with strong twine.

Don't for SHOES. Don't just number or letter them. Don't send fruit that can spoil. Don't send liquids in bottles or glass. Don't forget to affix completed customs declaration. Don't use "short hand", they don't work.



Textile Town
MAGOG THRIVES ON COTTON
Many a town in Canada might envy this thriving Quebec community, Magog—a typical textile town. Its progress and prosperity have been built on years of steady work provided by its citizens by textiles, the only big industry in the town. Adult males employed in Dominion Textile mills earn an average of $30.44 a week, and this substantial payroll is the buying power for Magog's retail trade. Dominion Textile mills are an integral part of Magog's industrial life and its annual payroll is a sound financial position. It has an enviable public health record too. All this comes from the presence of a stable pay-paying industry.
Magog is a notable example of the cotton industry's value to this country.

MARRIAGES

KNOPP-ROSENBERG

The marriage of Mathie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rosenberg, 5427 Hutchison Street, to Sidney Knopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Knopp, 762 Dawson Avenue, took place on January 28, in the study of the bride's uncle, Rabbi [illegible] Rosenbaum, who officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mr. and Mrs. Knopp will reside at 2960 Van Horne Avenue.

FRANK-FLEISHER

The marriage of Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Fleisher, 5555 Durocher Avenue, to Seymour, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Frank, 5 Joyce Avenue, took place in the Ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel, on Sunday, February 25, at 4 o'clock, Reverend Dr. H. Abramowitz officiating, assisted by Cantor N. Mandelbaum. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory-colored satin princess gown, made with a yoke of Belgian lace, and a high neckline. Her veil, ending in lace, draped the bodice, which had long sleeves pointed over the hands. A long train extended from unpressed pleats at the back of the waist. Her tulle illusion veil, which was sprinkled with orange blossoms, fell from a halo of lace, and she carried a sheaf of white camellias. Mrs. L. Popliger was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a gown of Chartreuse-colored chiffon, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and trimmed with crystal beads at the shoulder and waist; a hat of shocking-pink and Chartreuse-colored chiffon; and shocking pink gloves, and carried a cascade of roses. Miss Sylvia Frank, sister of the groom, was junior maid of honor. Her gown of Kelly-green taffeta was made with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves, full skirt, and small double bustle; and she had a crown of gold-colored illusion veiling; long gold-colored gloves, and a muff of Talisman roses. Gerald Frank was best man, and the ushers were: Murray Diamond, I. H. Reisler, L. S. Popliger, Harry Luxton, Abe Pinsky, Moe Propas, George Cleman, and Sgt. Raymond Miller, R.C.A.F. The room was decorated with four arches of salmon-colored and white gladioli, with candelabra in between, and white satin ribbon marking the aisle. The altar was decorated with ferns and standards of gladioli. The wedding music was played by an orchestra, and Miss Sybil Rosen sang "O, Promise Me." The reception took place in the Normandie Hotel, which was decorated with standards of salmon-colored [illegible]

Card Of Thanks

Mrs. A. Pearl and family, 208 Grace Street, wish to thank their many relatives, friends, and neighbours for the kindness shown them in their recent bereavement of a beloved husband and father.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Joseph Stern, who passed away March 8, 1942, Adar 21. Sadly missed and forever mourned.

In ever-loving memory of Albert Yanny, who passed away March 18, 1944, fifteenth day of Adar, 5703.

"His last parting wish
We would like to have heard,
And breathed in His ear
Our last parting word.
Only those who have lost
Are able to tell
The pain in the heart,
In not saying farewell."

Sadly missed by mother, sisters, brother-in-law, wife, and children.

Newman—In loving memory of our dear and devoted wife and mother, Annie Newman, who passed away March 8, 1944. "May she rest in peace". Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by husband and family.

ANTI-BIAS BILL

penalties for those who persist in discrimination in employment.

Because of the gravity of the occasion, the Assembly and the spectators were in tense mood for the most part until late afternoon, when the proceedings were lightened with laughter during a sharp exchange between Mr. Stuart and Mr. Steingut.

At the end of it, Irwin Steingut minority leader, said that Mr. Stuart was just plain old-fashioned. "I may be old-fashioned, but I've got more hair than you have," Mr. Stuart shouted. Mr. Steingut's answer, possibly from Joe Miller's joke book, came right back: "Well, they always did say that hair never grown on a busy street."

Just before the final passage of the bill, Mr. Ives asked the Assemblymen, both opponents and proponents, to look on the future commission optimistically rather than pessimistically because it would need the support of all in its work.

The biggest applause of the day came when Mr. Heck made his address from Mr. Ives's place on the floor. "I am proud of this House," he said. "The Assembly of the State of New York is the leading legislative body of the world. I am proud of the way that you conducted the debate today."

Because America is the greatest nation in the world, and because New York is the greatest state in America, Mr. Heck said, the action by New York's Assembly "will stand as an example to the nation and the world."

The Senate on March 5 passed and sent to Governor Thomas E. Dewey the Ives-Quinn bill establishing in New York State the nation's first official commission to fight racial and religious discrimination in the field of employment.

The controversial measure, which is of historic importance in the annals of social and economic legislation, is virtually certain to be signed into law by Governor Thomas E. Dewey inasmuch as the Governor came out strongly for such legislation in his annual message to the Legislature early in January.

tional collection ceiling at one million one hundred thousand dollars, and that J.D.C. forego the six hundred thousand dollar countervailing amount.

"The J. D. C. proposed that the first division be twenty-five million dollars in the ratio of sixty to forty percent respectively, the J. N. F. traditional collection ceiling to be nine hundred thousand dollars and the J.D.C. to forego the six hundred thousand dollar countervailing amount. In view of the J. D.C.'s consistent desire to maintain the National U.J.A. and recognizing the keen concern felt by the organized Jewish communities of this country for the continuance of the U.J.A., the J.D.C., at a specially convened meeting of its Executive Committee, agreed to submit to arbitration by mutually acceptable procedure, the unresolved differences as indicated above."

In New York City, the National Jewish Welfare Board, N.R.S., U.P.A. and J.D.C. will continue their joint fund-raising efforts in the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York.

THE CANADIAN WAY OF LIFE . . .

A Chance to Go Fishin' . . . !

YES, and the right to go fishin' . . . the right to enjoy the simple, pleasant things of life! Picnics by the river—week-end trips in the old family jalopy—these are some of the things that your boy is fighting for today! And he won't be able to enjoy those things, unless we at home fight for him against inflation—unless we make sure when he gets back his dollar will be worth a dollar.

To protect his dollar, we must realize NOW the dangers of careless, unnecessary buying! We must buy only what we need—never buy two where one will do! We must not evade rationing or price control, or deal with black markets. If we break the rules, our country—the country he's fighting for—will start on that spiral of prices known as inflation!

Remember! Every time ONE of us breaks ONE of these rules, we're lowering the value of our soldier's dollar. We're helping to shoot prices sky-high . . . and sky-high prices mean inflation. The value of every dollar in Canada goes down, and when the men overseas come back their dollar might buy only a quarter's worth of goods!

We can prevent inflation! We can give our fighting man his "right to go fishin'", if we make sure his dollar will be worth a dollar, when he comes home. We can't give back to him his lost years, or his lost youth. But if we keep up the fight against inflation, he can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living — the Canadian way of life!

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.

By supporting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.

By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

Art And The Synagogue

"And the Lord spoke unto Moses saying: 'See, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and I have filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom and understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship, to devise skillful works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in the cutting of stones for setting and in the carving of wood, to work in all manner of workmanship.'"

These are telling verses found in the traditional Torah reading for this Sabbath. These give evidence that art had an unique place in Judaism as far back as in the days of Moses! We learn from the Biblical record, too, how in Solomonic days the plastic arts played a most important role in the beautification of the Temple in Jerusalem. In the days of the second Temple, Palestine, and Jewish life generally, was tremendously influenced by Hellenic civilization and Hellenic artistic expression.

Recently a third century synagogue was unearthed in Dura-Europos with its entire walls covered with frescoes depicting Bible scenes. Perhaps this would indicate that early Christian art had its roots in a vanished Jewish art which preceded it.

There is no doubt that a rigid interpretation of the second commandment of the decalogue had much to do with the limiting of the artistic expression through painting and sculpture. The Jewish people found it most suitable to praise the Creator through poetry and song and music. These arts without form could not limit Him who is formless. God to the Jew is the Incorporeal. No physical presentation can represent Him. Hence, the great fear on the part of the Jew has been that the plastic arts may tend to idol worship and idolatry. Did not the Maccabees choose to do battle and die for the hallowing of the invisible God's name when the Syrians desecrated the ancient Temple by establishing the idol of Jupiter in the sanctuary?

Judaism has insisted that the worship of a concrete, material picture is a denial of the spiritual conception of the divine. Any physical representation of God is a misrepresentation. Hence, they thought Pilate who ordered images of Cesear to be placed [illegible] to protest against the anti-[illegible] of the Jews.

The glory of Judaism has ever been that it has never defined God. How can finite mind picture truly the infinite? Hence it is that Judaism opposed that the undefinable be imaged either in form of idol or in the form of intellectual idolatry. All these expressions tend to degrade the belief in God.

Christianity, early Christianity, experienced a conflict between those who were conditioned to use images in worship and those who opposed the worship of such images and there is a record that for a long time the prohibition of graven image worship of the Decalogue text was omitted from the church readings of the Ten Commandments. This conflict is still on in the Christian church of our day. One need only make a scientific study of the divisiveness between the so-called Catholic Christianity and Protestant Christianity.

The Second Commandment, of course, prohibits the representation of God by images but it does not prohibit the representation of God's works through the arts. While it is true the great mission of Israel has been the preachment of righteousness, it is wrong to say that religion constitutes the only legacy of Israel and that the legacy of Greece is that of beauty. Recent studies have shown that there is no such clear cut difference between races as has hitherto been assumed. What is considered Greek art is now seen to be much Semitic in origin and surely Israel has given surpassing monuments of beauty through the works of an Isaiah, Job, and the Psalms.

Art is nature plus soul. The difference between a painting and a photograph is that the camera lacks a spiritual agent. Thus all art is a spiritual interpretation of nature. Music is but the harmonization of nature's myriad voices.

Surely art exerts a refining influence. It broadens and evokes a desire for the pure and holy. A beautiful exterior and environment well tends to beautify the inner promptings of soul and mind.

The Rabbis of the Talmud have shown a great love for beauty. Thus they instituted special benedictions for when one beholds a beautiful tree, a beautiful creature, or the beauty of the first blossoming of spring. They saw in the whole process of creation a process of unfolding beauty. Commenting on the verse, "This is my God and I shall glorify Him." (Exodus 15:2), the Rabbis taught: "Make thyself attractive in the performance of the Commandments before God. Make a beautiful Succah and a beautiful scroll of the law in His name on good parchment with fine ink and a good pen wrapped in a beautiful mantle."

Jewish tradition has ever stressed beauty in worship and religious observance. Alas, a hostile world has often forced us to build our sanctuaries on side streets, in cramped ghettos, and even prohibited us from beautifying our synagogues. One need only recall the edict of King Alfonso, of Spain, in the tenth century in this regard. But, why dwell on what took place a thousand years ago in Spain when right here in the capital of our province only recently the Quebec City Jewish community had to undergo the painful experience of fighting for its rights to build a new sanctuary in a suitable locality, since the old sanctuary was located in the slum section.

Fortunately, with the rise of emancipation, the Jew had the choice of receptioning aesthetic expression become as a free citizen he could now at liberty pursue the beautiful. Though ever keeping in mind that, according to Judaism, the highest artistry consists not in the mastery of self-expression but in self-control, he could now practice both. Jews during the 19th century produced outstanding artists. The great revival of Jewish art in Palestine is due to that pioneer, Professor Boris Schatz. In 1906, inspired by the Hebrew renaissance, Schatz founded the Bezalel School of Arts and Crafts in Jerusalem. Schatz had been court artist in Bulgaria. He came to Palestine with the dream of an art academy to be established in the Holy Land so that the Jewish genius might continue anew to give expression through the plastic arts. Today Palestine boasts of outstanding Jewish artists and a splendid art museum in Tel Aviv. The art colony of Palestine, comprising several groups, is today making an unique contribution to the culture of the Near East. Art is certainly seeping in slowly into every section of Palestinian life, and there is every reason to believe that Jewish Palestine is becoming a great centre of culture and art.

We in Montreal have in our midst an important colony of Jewish artists, writers and poets. What a pity that in our hustle and bustle most of us give little attention to these creative spirits in our midst. Many a fine Jewish artist is driven to submerge his talents which he yearns to give to Jewry and is forced to paint for that which will at least yield him bread to eat and raiment to wear. Alas, we often pay with compliments our creative personalities, and with unpaid tax parties.

We have had in recent years in European capitals Jews among the great art collectors, art critics and patrons of the arts. With Europe in shambles the Americas are bound to become the great centres where art in all its forms will find understanding, expression and support.

When victory comes and peace is established, Canadian Jewry should give more attention to the aesthetic and support those consecrated souls, artists, the interpreters of the beautiful. While art is international every people has its peculiar aesthetic expression. And surely Jewish art can contribute much toward the embellishment of Jewish life in particular and of the life of the Dominion.

The modern synagogue as the historic primary institution in Jewish life should give shelter within its precincts to expressions of Jewish aesthetics and should re-emphasize the Jewish tradition of the beautiful as an important part of Judaism.

"Napoleon when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an empire."

The conversion of Dr. Isreale Anton Zolli, Grand Rabbi of Rome, to Catholicism was like a rock that falls into the water, causing ever-widening circles of dismay which took in the whole Jewish world. Such a thing and at such a time! Jewish feeling about this event is probably so much the same everywhere as to be almost amusing. Why did he do it? Jews want to know, shaking their heads over this mystery.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, in New York, takes a typically Jewish attitude when he says that every Jew will be amazed to learn of the "so-called conversion." Whereas, a Gentile would accept Dr. Zolli's conversion at face value and not stop to question its genuineness, Rabbi Wise refers to it as "so-called".

"What lay behind this", he reflects, "I do not know, excepting that I have heard of certain things which surely have nothing to do with the change of a man's innermost faith. The Chief Rabbi has met with kindness at the hands of the Vatican and has had differences with his own flock. It will take a great deal of explaining on his part to make intelligible the substitution by a Chief Rabbi of the Jewish community of his own simple, reasonable, ethical faith for a faith which departs from monotheism which Dr. Zolli's and my people have upheld for nearly four thousand years."

In Rome Dr. Zolli's daughter, Miriam, defended her father's right to follow the dictates of his conscience. Elsewhere in the world it probably does not occur to Jews to even mention this fact. They simply do not believe that his conversion had anything to do with his conscience or that it could be sincere. The Jews of Rome were stunned by the action of their Rabbi and completely at a loss to explain it. Like Rabbi Wise, they consider Zolli a traitor because he claims that he has changed his religion. But they are looking for a solution of the mystery of the announcement of the conversion, not the conversion itself for it would be hard to find Jews who take Zolli's or any Jew's conversion seriously. They can believe that a Jew can become a sincere atheist but not that he can honestly prefer any other religion to Judaism.

For some months Zolli had been a storm centre in a Jewish community fight. One group was led by Hugo Fox, deposed as president of the Jewish Community Council of Rome by the Allied Military Government. Fox attacked Dr. Zolli bitterly for hiding during the German occupation instead of keeping his place with his congregation and sharing its fate. Silvo Ottolenghi had been appointed the leader of the Jewish Community by the Allied Military Government. Fox charged that Ottolenghi had signed a statement in 1938 derogatory to "International Zionism".

Ottolenghi, with the backing of the Grand Rabbi, accused Fox of joining the Fascist Party in 1932. Also of neglecting to destroy the list of Rome's Jews, which helped the Germans to [illegible] and the fate of [illegible] Fox denied [illegible] Ottolenghi [illegible] Fascist Party. At any rate, last November the situation was such that Colonel Charles Poletti, of New York, head of the Allied Military Government in Rome, advised against the holding of elections to the board of the Jewish Community, and they were stopped.

Reports say that about three hundred Jews who were sheltered in the Vatican during the German occupation have undergone baptism. It is well known that Jews who had escaped from deportation trains or from concentration camps were helped by Catholic priests and Protestant clergymen. Refugees know that they could get food, rest and good advice on how to evade the Germans by going to almost any personage. Numerous Jewish children whose parents were deported from France were taken into Catholic convents, and many priests gave their lives or their health in saving Jews as a matter of duty for which they did not want to be thanked.

The most common way of saving Jews was to supply them with false identification papers, and especially with certificates of baptism. Information from Dr. I. Zaharaqua, writing from Lisbon, is to the effect that, as in other centuries, many Jews would have agreed to be baptised in order to escape the Nazi hangmen, but that neither Catholic nor Protestant priests attempted to force upon Jews who were given the saving certificates of baptism the actual ceremonies of baptism.

The supposition is that Zolli entered the Catholic Church out of gratitude or in tribute because of the humanitarian help which the Pope gave on behalf of Jews to rescue them from destruction. He had struggled with his own people but he seemed to get along fine with Catholics and was given a haven twice by two Catholic families who, he said, treated him like their own father. Maybe there will be more light on Zolli's action some other day. Meantime, as Joseph Nathan, Allied Commissioner for the affairs of the Union of Italian Jewish Communities said, the less said about the matter the better.

The above column was written for V.T. with the hope that it answers her question.

War Criminals And Their Friends

The New Republic says:

Mr. Joseph C. Grew, Undersecretary of State, has announced that the American government approves punishing war crimes, including those of the Germans against the Jews, wherever committed. Washington dispatches report that the words "wherever committed" were added to Mr. Grew's statement only at the last moment, because of the insistence of newspapermen at his press conference—surely one of the most extraordinary incidents in the history of diplomacy.

Mr. Grew's statement is somewhat reassuring, but the whole situation still needs the most careful watching. There appear to be plenty of people in high places in London and Washington who don't want the war criminals tried, and least of all, for what they have done to the Jews. Some of these people, like Winston Churchill, were notoriously friendly to Nazis or Fascists before the war, and don't want to be quoted in open court.

Some of them are anti-Semitic. Some have smothered themselves in red tape. The two best members of the War Crimes Commission, Sir Cecil Hurst, British, and Herbert C. Pell, American, who fought for genuine justice, have both been forced out on slender pretexts.

It is not bloodthirstiness that makes us want to see these crimes expiated, but a desire to have the nations recognize and live up to a minimum of moral decency. Moreover, hundreds of thousands of Jews are still in Axis-occupied territory; to abandon them now would be an open incitement to murder. And anti-Semitism will continue after this war is ended; it is important to remind the world that there is such a thing as justice, even though the Nazis and their friends don't think so.
